Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Saturday 27 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Turning wet and windy tonight. Drier, clearer by dawn.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain spreading northeast across most areas, some heavy, though little reaching the sheltered northeast. Windy with gales for a time. Turning clearer later tonight with a few showers.

Sunday:
Mainly dry start, a few showers. Cloud and more persistent rain will extend from the southwest, becoming heavy over western high ground especially the West Highlands. Drier northeast. Milder, windy.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Occasional rain on Monday, heaviest over the West Highlands, patchy in sheltered east. Rain slowly clearing north on Tuesday, turning warm and sunny south and east, Wednesday mainly dry.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.